Role: ceremonial heads of a Barony, and representatives of the King and Queen; also a conduit to Their Majesties regarding the views of the populace on Kingdom issues. - a long-term view and strategic planning
- strong sense of leadership and responsibility
- an approach which allows and encourages others to play to their strengths

The main workload is attending as many events, practices and other meetings as possible, holding Court where required, and all the off-site work and communication which goes into making these activities go smoothly.

Frequent Council attendance and reporting is a given, as is liaising with the Seneschal and sometimes other officers on a regular basis. Annual "state of the Barony" reports are to be made to Their Majesties as a brief, informative verbal report if present or a written report as you and They see fit. Letters of welcome and confirmation of fealty are required at the start of each new reign. Other communications are common, particularly in relation to Royal visits and/or Kingdom awards, as well as communication with the other Landed Baronages.
